The value of Philanthropy is giving of one's assets, be it monetary, knowledge, time, service, or inspiration. The sharing of the gift increases the asset's value.

Engaging in acts of true philanthropy is a power the Creator has bestowed only on the human species. There is nothing quite so rewarding as doing well while doing good.

Sharing one's gifts and talents, whatever they may be, results in a rewarding life. As a wife and mother, the mission of Family Supportive Housing is very close to my heart.

We who are blessed to be in Silicon Valley have a special obligation to share our time, treasure and talent to make the world a better place. Family Supportive Housing is one place where any individual can make a difference.

Those of us who are able to help have a responsibility to those who need help. To improve the lives of others is to make the world a better, more productive, happier place.

The family unit is the backbone of society. If we do not reach out to assist struggling families, the fabric of our society may be permanently damaged. I believe that Family Supportive Housing provides this assistance to aid families in becoming productive and most important, self sufficient members of society.

Membership Committee Chair

Bruce Noel, Consultant and
Retired Executive, Qualcomm
Supporting families is the keystone to making the world a better place. Family Supportive Housing is the one homeless organization in San Jose that provides whole families with the safety and support they need. This is the organization to give to.

Operations Co-Chair

Kathy Burke, Executive Coach and Retired Executive, Hewlett-Packard

Each of us has more power to make an impact than we ever know. Every act - whether large or small - has great potential to create positive change and these changes ripple through our society. Helping one parent to feel supported and to strengthen their parenting, life, and job skills can make a significant difference for a family and everyone they touch. Helping one child feel less afraid and more secure paves the way for a brighter future for all of us.

Former Chairman

Kathy Imwalle, Community Volunteer

I feel passionately about the importance and power of family. The family is the basis of human social structure. I have observed the family in primitive societies as well as in developed countries. Sometimes we lose the perspective of the power of family with all our distractions. I have also experienced the power of family with work in the schools. There is nothing more important in a child's education than a stable supportive family. Family Supportive Housing supports families in crisis to regain their stability. FSH provides the skills to make necessary changes in the family.

Operations Co-Chair

Candy Capogrossi

Housing Authority of Santa Clara County

The famous psychologist, Dr. Maslow, described in his Hierarchy of Needs that it is not possible to achieve self esteem or actualization until the most basic of needs, food and shelter, is met. Family Supportive Housing provides not only food and shelter, but so much more. We cannot solve the national homeless issue, but by giving locally to a proven, respected organization, we can break the cycle of homelessness within our community right now!

Vice Chairman

Regan Senkarik

General Manager, MercuryNews.com

It takes only one unfortunate circumstance for a family to find themselves in a situation where they are in need of help. It is in those times that the bond of a family is most fragile and in most need of nurturing. By tending to that bond, the ability to overcome obstacles, build new skills, and find new opportunities becomes easier. For me, supporting Family Supportive Housing is not just about being able to write a check. It's about being able to touch someone's life.

Executive Director

Patricia Crowder

Family Supportive Housing, Inc.

I truly believe that we are our brothers keepers and that, as Charles Dickens said, "No one is useless in this world who lightens the burdens of another."
